Background

The pension landscape changed dramatically on 6 April 2015 and now offers pension savers aged 55 and over significantly greater flexibility when accessing their pension funds.

There is no longer a requirement to buy an annuity and the range of choices now available can be bewildering. Great care should be taken, as the decisions you make now could affect your standard of living for the rest of your life.

Withdrawing some or all of the accrued benefits will mean the payment of Income Tax for the majority of people. In some cases this could be a substantial amount, so careful planning is essential.

Most pension contracts allow you to take up to 25% of the fund free of tax. You can take this up front as a lump sum, or as the tax free element of a pattern of withdrawals. The remaining 75% is then subject to income tax and the amount you pay will depend on how you access this.

There are broadly four options available to savers in a Defined Contribution (money purchase) pension arrangement. Defined Benefit (final salary scheme) members should contact their adviser or scheme administrator for clarification on how the new rules affect them, if at all. Our view is that for many, Defined Benefit schemes remain the most appropriate choice for providing their standard of living in retirement and only when it can be clearly demonstrated to be in the client's best interests, will we consider such a transfer.

It is worth noting that not all existing arrangements can facilitate the retirement options now available, so it's worth checking with your existing pension provider to clarify the options available.

Those with existing capped drawdown arrangements will remain subject to the rules and restrictions limiting their withdrawals. If these limits are breached, the arrangement will be converted to a Flexi Access Drawdown (FAD). All existing flexible drawdown contracts were automatically converted to FAD.

Other Considerations

Tax

For all options, once your tax free payment has been made, the product provider is required to deduct income tax which is processed via the Pay As You Earn (PAYE) system. If they have been provided with your tax code, the tax payable on the income above your personal allowance will be calculated and the net payment paid to you. Without a tax code or P45, they will deduct tax at the emergency month 1 rate, and you'll pay tax on the whole amount above the tax free element. Any refund for an overpayment of tax must be requested from HM Revenue & Customs using one of three new forms.

State pensions

Income from all sources, including State Pension is taken into account to determine the rate of tax you pay. Those who decide to access their pension via a pattern of withdrawals need to plan this carefully, as the timing can have a big impact. Professional financial advice is strongly recommended at this point.

Future funding

Accessing your pension funds via any of the options highlighted on the previous page may restrict the level of future pension savings that you may be able to make, so care needs to be taken especially if you wish to continue saving into a pension.

The Money Purchase Annual Allowance (MPAA) came into effect on 6th April 2015 – the allowance itself is just £4,000. There's also a limit set by the Government over how much can be paid into a pension arrangement each year and upon which you can receive tax relief. This is called the Annual Allowance and is currently set at £40,000 but this is linked to your earnings. If you pay in more than the Annual Allowance in a tax year, you won't receive any tax relief on the excess and a tax charge will become due, so it's important to bear this in mind. For anyone who doesn't fully utilise their allowance in the current or any of the previous three tax years, you can legitimately pay in more than the annual limit by utilising Carry Forward as it allows you to make pension contributions that exceed your annual allowance and still benefit from tax relief.

You must bear in mind that Carry Forward affects higher earners who will find that their Annual Allowance could be reduced if their earnings exceed a certain limit. Since 6 April 2020, it will only affect people who meet both of the following income requirements; your 'threshold income' is above £200,000, and your 'adjusted income' is above £240,000. Anyone who meets the income requirements above that will see their annual allowance gradually reduce by £1 for every £2 of 'adjusted income' above £240,000.

For example, if your adjusted income was £280,000 your annual allowance would be reduced to £20,000.

Working out your threshold and adjusted income can be complicated. Be aware that the income definitions were lower between 6 April 2016 and 5 April 2020.

Restrictions also apply to those subject to Primary Protection and Enhanced Protection and you must have an available Lifetime Allowance. The Lifetime Allowance is the limit set on the total value of accrued benefits from all your pension schemes which can be paid to you without triggering additional tax charges which depend upon how the payment is taken. The Lifetime Allowance is currently £1,073,100 and has been frozen at this level until the 2025/26 tax year.

Death

Treatment of benefits on death has changed too. Where death occurs before age 75, any lump sum or income payments to the beneficiary or successor can normally be made tax-free.

If death occurs after the age of 75, any lump sum or income payments will be subject to the recipient's marginal rate of income tax.

Rules now mean that anyone can benefit from your pension when you die, but it's worth noting that not all pension schemes actually allow this rule to be administered. You must check with your provider and importantly, you should ensure that your death benefit nomination (or expression of wish) has been updated to reflect who you would like to benefit from your pension when you die. Whilst this may not guarantee the wish, it will certainly help inform the pension trustees who you want to benefit.

Our Approach

A free and impartial guidance service is available from Pension Wise which was set up by the Government. You can visit www.moneyhelper.org.uk/en/pensions-and-retirement or call them on 0800 138 3944. They won't recommend any products or inform you what to do with your money.

Advice

If guidance alone is not enough for you to make an informed decision about your retirement options, you should seek financial advice from a regulated adviser who can make recommendations based upon your personal circumstances after assessing your needs, requirements and objectives.

You have more protection when using a financial adviser due to the way that they are authorised and regulated.

You don't necessarily have the same level of protection through a guidance service as no advice is being provided or taken.

Pension scams

You should contact your pension provider immediately if you've signed something which you're now unsure about as they may be able to stop the transaction. Be sure to report it to the Action Fraud team on 0300 123 2040. If you aren't sure what to do, you can call The Pensions Advisory Service (TPAS) for help on 0300 123 1047 or visit their website for information.

Armstrong Watson Financial Planning & Wealth Management is a Chartered firm of independent financial advisers, with 17 offices across the North of England and the Scotland.

We are experienced at dealing with retirement planning issues and are fully up to speed with the changes and the increasing array of retirement options.

We will make a personal recommendation to you based upon a comprehensive, fair and unbiased analysis of the relevant market. We are not constrained by product providers or solutions and our qualified advisers operate on a no surprises philosophy that puts the needs of our clients first.

We will often use a cash flow modelling tool to help calculate the growth rate required to meet your investment objectives. This rate is then cross referenced with your attitude to risk to ensure your expectations are realistic and compatible with the asset allocation of your investment portfolio. This may be a key consideration at the outset of your investments and at future reviews.

Our usual process is to arrange an initial meeting for which we will not charge. This enables our Financial Planning Consultant to establish your needs and objectives and make an assessment of the work required, including any on-going work. We will explain the costs that will be payable for our advice and services, but we will not charge until we have agreed with you how much and how we are to be paid.

The value of investments and the income from them can fall as well as rise. You may get back less than you originally invested. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results.
